Jennifer is a commercial lawyer, specialising in intellectual property (patents, designs, copyrights, database rights, trade marks), confidential information, associated competition law and IT/internet law, in each case on an international basis.

She acts for a wide variety of clients, ranging from multinational companies to charities and Governmental organisations.

Much of Jennifer's work relates to technology, including life sciences, chemicals, engineering, and IT/telecoms.

She also specialises in brand licensing and merchandising, both for the fashion and design industries and for the education sector.

Jennifer is admitted to practise in England and Wales.

EXPERIENCE

- Licences for: a multinational life sciences company, a national asset database with data in relation to carbon storage sites, major fashion brands, and educational content for well-known charities.
