

Xiang Wang

Xiang Wang is Senior Vice President of Xiaomi, responsible for strategic cooperation and partner relationship management.

Xiang previously served as Senior Vice President of Qualcomm and President of Qualcomm Greater China, leading Qualcomms business and operations in Greater China. Xiang also manages Qualcomms CDMA Technologies division in China.. Xiang served as Vice President of Qualcomm, responsible for Qualcomm chipset business and customer services in China. Under the leadership of Xiang, Qualcomm successfully extended and strengthened partnership with rapidly increasing number of Chinese manufacturing customers.

Xiang has more than 20 years of experience in the semiconductor and communications fields, with great vision and comprehensive understanding of the next-generation wireless communication. Prior to joining Qualcomm, he held key positions in sales and marketing of world leading companies, including Motorola and Lucent/Agere.

Xiang earned his BSEE from Beijing Polytechnic University.